

Small-company agility. Large-company resources.

We're on a mission to listen, relate and evolve to build on the past success of those who have come before us.

United Flea Markets was born out of a passion for the enduring, contemporary flea market business that always adds fun, affordability and local flavor to its communities. As owners and operators of diverse flea markets around the country, United Flea Markets balances corporate prudence, practical flea market experience, capital and resources with a more flexible structure and perspective to create best-of-class, streamlined operations with an always-evolving and creative approach.

Beginning with our first acquisition of Mile High Flea Market in Denver, Colorado, almost two decades ago, we quickly recognized the value of the distinctive flea market culture and operating model.

We understand that experience and diversity represent an important component of a market's value.

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE:

Wide resources, close-knit approach

After acquiring our second market in southwest Florida, we brought in an institutional capital partner to facilitate the growth of the United Flea Markets family.

Today we are focused on responsible expansion through acquisitions that create efficiencies and—importantly—maintain each individual flea market's character.

With the means and insights of a large company, coupled with an intentionally small-business culture and approach, our balance of strong financial backing and intimate, on-the-ground market relationships allows us to create and build on a sustainable nationwide footprint.

DOING BUSINESS WITH US:

Creatively carrying on legacies

The United Flea Markets view is long-term, as we are focused on owning and operating a family of diverse, well-capitalized, highly successful flea markets around the country. We have a vested interest in and respect for carrying on the legacies created by dedicated and immersed flea market owners.

Leveraging a combination of available capital and a flat operating model, United Flea Markets is creative with terms, deal structure and timing. We can close on a flea market within 90 days of an agreed-upon purchase contract.

We strive to maintain existing flea market buyers, vendors and employees. In addition, we understand that experience and diversity represent an important component of a market's value. We reinvest annually in our markets and work diligently to uncover the exceptional potential of each property to become the best place to shop, sell, work and spend the day.

OUR ACQUISITION PROCESS

We are nimble, understand that each transaction has its own nuances, and are always focused on creating a streamlined closing process that respects the needs of a seller. If necessary, we can adjust timing and structure to meet the needs of each seller.

HOW WE OPERATE: We're owners/operators first

We face the same day-to-day opportunities and challenges as every flea market owner. We understand the ever-changing needs and desires of both flea market visitors and vendors, and work diligently to deliver superior service to today's consumer and entrepreneur.

The hands-on United Flea Markets team not only understands the needs of vendors and guests, but we also are adept at handling outside challenges such as diversified climate conditions. We're on a mission to listen, relate and evolve to build on the past success of those who have come before us.

At United Flea Markets, our goal is always to achieve the highest-caliber operations—a mix of sophisticated technology, top-level service standards and real relationships with shoppers, sellers and employees who like to have fun along the way.

Want to learn more about partnering with United Flea Markets? We welcome an opportunity to discuss short- and long-term goals with flea market owners who are entertaining exit opportunities now or in the near or distant future.

The highest-caliber operations—a mix of sophisticated technology, top-level service standards and real relationships with shoppers, sellers and employees who like to have fun along the way.

LEADERSHIP | OWNERSHIP

Robert Sieban

Executive Chairman and Owner, United Flea Markets

Rob now serves as Executive Chairman of United Flea Markets, where his focus is on mergers and acquisitions to support the company's continued growth and expansion. He also serves as Chairman of the National Flea Market Association Board of Directors.

Rob earned his on-the-ground credentials in 2011 when he assumed leadership as CEO and operator of Denver's Mile High Flea Market, the third-largest outdoor flea market in the nation.

With more than 30 years of experience in the retail and flea market industries, Rob has held leadership roles in buying, merchandise planning and allocation, and has worked extensively with both large and small private-equity firms. He has also served as an officer of publicly traded companies.

His executive background includes leadership in the direct-to-consumer space with a focus on scalable platforms, including key roles at Sunglass Hut International and Lids Corp during periods of significant global growth. Additionally, Rob held positions as Executive Vice President at BriteSmile and Director of Operations at Pier 1 Imports.

Lincoln Hoffman

CEO, United Flea Markets

Lincoln joined United Flea Markets in 2018 as Director of Field Services and quickly demonstrated his strong operational skill set, successfully running the business and helping scale the United Flea Markets portfolio. He was later promoted to President and, in 2025, elevated to Chief Executive Officer. As CEO, Lincoln continues to lead the company's growth, overseeing all aspects of operations, strategic initiatives, and portfolio development.

Prior to joining United Flea Markets, Lincoln served as Director of Property and Asset Management for a real estate management company, where he oversaw more than one million square feet of commercial and medical office space across 35 locations in three states. He also held leadership roles in Las Vegas, where he managed operations for luxury retail centers, casinos, convention centers, and resorts. In these positions, he directed key departments including facilities, housekeeping, environmental services, shipping and receiving, and security.

Lincoln joined the United States Marine Corps in 2004, graduating as Company Honor Man in both recruit training and MOS school.

Julie Roby

Chief Finance Officer, United Flea Markets

Julie Roby brings nearly two decades of experience driving financial growth and operational excellence to her role as Chief Financial Officer at United Flea Markets. Known for her strategic vision and collaborative leadership style, Julie has an extensive background in financial planning and analysis, capital markets, mergers and acquisitions, and corporate development across diverse industries.

Before joining United Flea Markets, Julie served as Senior Vice President of Financial Planning & Analysis at DHI Group, Inc., where she was instrumental in growing the company. She has also held senior finance leadership positions at Option Care Health, Maxar Technologies, and Agilent Technologies, consistently building high-performing teams and delivering measurable business results.

Julie earned her Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a concentration in Finance from Colorado State University, graduating Magna Cum Laude. She is widely recognized as a skilled communicator, mentor, and business partner who drives alignment across all levels of an organization.

Matthew Dupuie

Vice President of Marketing, United Flea Markets

Matthew Dupuie brings more than a decade of experience in marketing, media, and brand strategy to his role as Vice President of Marketing at United Flea Markets. His career has been built at the intersection of strategy, brand, revenue, and execution across national and local markets, with experience spanning consumer destinations, retail, ecommerce, and media driven businesses.

Before joining United Flea Markets, Matthew held marketing and media roles at organizations including Rather Outdoors, Nexstar Media Group, and Alpha Media. Across these environments, he has developed and managed advertising initiatives for multi brand portfolios, overseen large advertising budgets, and delivered performance driven reporting tied to measurable growth and audience engagement. His background includes both traditional and digital media, with experience in radio broadcasting, paid media, content strategy, and digital platform optimization.

At United Flea Markets, Matthew is focused on building a cohesive national marketing approach that maintains strong local relevance. He views flea markets as destination experiences that serve families, communities, and small businesses, and is committed to positioning United Flea Markets properties as community centered brands that drive long term value.

Matthew holds a degree in Advertising and Marketing Communications and is known for his strategic mindset, collaborative leadership style, and ability to translate marketing investment into sustainable business results.

Lisa Povich

Vice President of Human Resources and IT, United Flea Markets

Lisa joined Mile High Flea Market, a subsidiary of United Flea Markets, over 30 years ago with a background in administrative management. During her tenure, Lisa has played a key role in the formation and development of the United Flea Markets platform. In her role at United Flea Markets, Lisa works directly with the individual leadership teams at each subsidiary market.
